“THE SONG OF HIAWATHA”

“I am going, O my people,
On a long and distant journey;
Many moons and many winters
Will have come, and will have vanished,
Ere I come again to see you.
But my guests I leave behind me;
Listen to their words of wisdom,
Listen to the truth they tell you
For the Master of Life has sent them
From the land of light and morning.”

CLASS POEM

"SHIP OF '38"

We've sailed through four short years
Until at last we find

Our ship has reached another shore,
Leaving high school days behind.

Our presidents have been the Captains
Piloting our ship's course straight.
Each classmate was a sailor
Each class officer—a mate.

Past days of youth and learning
Are logged within our ship.
We hope our hard-earned knowledge
Will brighten our life's trip.

And so as the "Class of thirty-eight"
This June our ship will cease to be.
From Ludlow High we shall graduate
Each sailor upon life's sea.

CLASS HISTORY

Once upon a time, back in the days of 1934, the Tribe of '38 whooped its way into Ludlow High. The whole Freshman year was spent in settling down on the reservation. The next year the Tribe chose four students to lead the group. There were the Big Chief, Benny Edgar, and his assisting brave, Joseph Beauregard, with Annie Janes to keep a record of the Tribe, and Ruth Crowell to take care of the wampum. It was a year of triumphs — the Tribe won over the Tribe's of '36 and '37 in the inter-Class One-Act Play Contest, in which Margaret Bell played the leading role. In the Oratoricals, Robert Beaton and Grace Guerra, both of the class of '38, won first and third prizes respectively.

Many moons later Joseph Karczmarczyk became the Big Chief, and William Mateer took over charge of the wampum, but Joseph Beauregard and Annie Janes remained. By now the Tribe was well established, and settled down to choose colors and a motto in keeping with tradition. Crimson (a real Indian hue) and grey were chosen for colors, and "Perge" (In Indian it's "Onagah") selected for the motto. The Tribe held a good old-fashioned pow-wow in the form of a Harvest Dance. As for achievements, many of the class participated in the Operetta, among them May Hiersche and William Avezzie. And Grace Guerra captured first place in the Oratoricals. As the final social event of the year, the Tribe held the annual Promenade for the departing Class of 1937.

More moons passed. The Tribe was getting wiser and wiser. That year Mitchell Kuc took over the Big Chief's head-dress, Arlene Munsing became his assistant, and William Avezzie started to count the wampum all over again (on one hand). Annie Janes was now so experienced at symbol writing that she was kept as Secretary. The Senior Dance was an important fall event. The Tribe made an exceptionally good record in their final year. Four young braves were awarded sweaters for their athletic prowess, these being William Avezzie, Joe Beauregard, Fernando Costa, and Mario Diotalevi. Rita Hennessey placed first in the Oratoricals and Robert Frennier second. Grace Guerra won the Gorgas Essay Contest. Evelyn Bassett was chosen as the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Pilgrim. In a League of Nations Contest in which all the Class participated, Evelyn Bassett was first, Robert Frennier second, Mary Sorcinelli third. For the first time in the history of the school, Ludlow placed first in the preliminaries of the Valley Wheel One-Act Play Contest.

The time was drawing close when the Tribe must move to another reservation. Some had already left in the many moons since that fateful September in '34. In order to have a little fun before they left, the Braves and Maidens came to school one day dressed as papooses. Then, at long last, after a gay time at Class Night and a Prom sponsored by the Juniors, came Graduation, when the "thirty-eighters" received their diplomas, and set out confidently for new reservations and new worlds to conquer.

CLASS PROPHECY

Scene: A dense forest; figures sit about. The sky is dark with clouds; rumbles of thunder sound ominously nearer and nearer; lightning streaks the darkness. One lonely figure turns his face questioningly to the heavens.

Big Chief Kuc: "Oh, omniscient Gitche Manito, we, the class of '38, appeal to your all-knowing powers. What have you in store for us? Will the way of life be clear or will it be stormy?"

(Out of the dark clouds descends Gitche Manito, the Great Prophet, accompanied by a blinding flash of lightning. Large and majestically he hovers above the circle of young Indian bucks and squaws chanting rhythmically the night-long chant. Slow and weird come the thuds of the sacred drums. As the Great One comes nearer, the drums beat louder, louder, and then silence.)

Gitche Manito: "Oh, my young people, you have reached the stage in your life where the knowledge of what you are to be in years to come looms a perplexing mystery in your uncertain future. You ask me to predict the future. I see a court scene. Rita Hennessey is sueing David Hutcheson for breach of promise. Evelyn Bassett, advocate of women's rights, is the plaintiff's attorney; opposing her is Fred Gregory. On the solemn judge's bench sits Vincent Ayres, drowsily nodding his head. He raps on the desk for order. Shirley Waldron is called to the witness stand, for she was the air-hostess on the airplane piloted by Murray Burgess and Marion Hiersche when the plaintiff and defendant met. The men at the trial suddenly sit up straight and take notice, for down the aisle come stylishly dressed models (their hair dress was designed by Mary Laska and Marion Frettag). They are Gertrude Scott, Wanda Wadas, Sophie Hojnak, Ann Barton and Ann Dynok, who were traveling to Hollywood on the same plane in which the ill-fated love affair started — a plane designed, by the way, by Harry Merkel. Other witnesses are Alphe Duby, a renowned explorer, who was on his way to discover a Utopia in the South Seas; Joseph Beauregard, returning to his job as chef for the M. G. M. Restaurant in California; Rueben Quaglini, body-guard of David Hutcheson; and Stanley Sternala, his chauffeur. Julia Sarad, Helen Barton, Shirley Considine, Stella Kochanek, and Claire Nedeau, nurses, are in the audience talking with the world-famous surgeon, Joseph Karczmarczyk. Another important witness is Christine Easson, a well-known singer who was also on the plane. Other passengers who have been subpoenaed as witnesses are Albert Goodreau, Theresa Stolar, and Rose Pereira, who were starting on a world cruise; George Magada, on his way to put through some important business transactions, and John Wdowiak, orchestra leader. Frank Silva and Americo Silva from the Silva Dancing School were on their way to Hollywood to teach the stars some new dancing steps. Philip Gaffney is also there; he was the aeronautical engineer. Near him is Alex Johnston, a close friend of David Hutcheson, and David Preston, the rich idler.

Eagerly taking notes are Stella Zuccarini, Laura Swiatoska, Catherine Dennis, and Winifred Hiersche. Looking over the crowd we see Gloria Pereira, the confirmed old maid who, however, is always interested in love affairs. Mary Sorcinelli, stenographer to Evelyn Bassett, is watching anxiously the tactics of her employer. Sitting dreamily in a corner is Paul Golden. Also I see Margaret Bell, the dramatic star, and the comedian Robert Frennier, who are to appear as guest stars on Harry Reid's guest night radio program. Harry has taken over Jack Benny's program, including also the playing of the "Bee". And look, there are Fernando Costa, Mario Diotalevi, and Fernando Monteiro, our ace sportsmen. Scanning the audience eagerly are Benny Edgar and Conrad Martin, avidly searching for rich wives. There's Betty Townsend with faithful hubby. Gildo Pancotti, with his head in the air because he won in an Irish sweepstake, is standing near her. Esther Farr and Helen Fuller, too, are here today. It seems that the airplane scared their prize-winning cows and chickens. And Annie Janes is here in person to see that the story gets in her paper. Ethel MacDowell and Edward Mik are busily drawing sketches of the trial. Nathalie and Marion Grabowski and Bertha Tenerowicz are in the audience, as quiet as ever. By them is Helen Kogut who has attained her goal of being an aviatrix. Mary Pukish is interested in the case since she can use the material for her next novel. In the jury I see Leon Kras, Theresa Martins, Corinne Martin (playing with a pencil), Steve Obrzut, Walter Pease, Fred Pruhnik, Francis Thompson (nodding his head), Joseph Zina, and Marion Warren (waving to the audience). The court clerk is Fred Bruni, and the stenographers are Julia Bramucci, Ruth Crowell, and Anna Costa.

The court breaks up and a few enter Eugene Abair's drug store where Mario Arcobello is a pharmacist. Francis Bissaillon is there, too. He has become the second Walter Winchell. Charlotte James is with him, aiding him in his scoops. The radio is playing, and over the air comes William Mateer's chant; he is tobacco auctioneer on a radio program. Outside Anna Nowak is entering Frances Mackintosh's Escort Bureau. Across the street a colored sign announces the arrival of Arlene Munsing, the great ice skater. Willis Warren's truck sails by, almost upsetting two pedestrians. Climbing into a cab is Doris Goddu with her rich husband. Down the street I see Edward Williamson buying tickets for a hockey game in which Gisto Marini is the star player. Nearby, Thelma Doughty is waitress in a restaurant where Rena Baldrat and her cowboy husband are seated. John Karczmarczyk nonchalantly strolls by with his hat on the side of his head. As I pass a theater I see advertised an operetta in which Rose Konderwicz, Grace Danforth, May Hiersche, and William Avezzie are starred with Eva Ellison as the orchestra leader. The music was composed by Emelia Lewicki, and the play written by Grace Guerra.

And you, oh Big Chief Kuc, I see you as head of a cosmetic concern. My prophesying is done. May you all go in peace now."

The drums sound louder and louder; a cloud of mist envelopes the Great One, and where he has been only a thin streak of smoke remains. Lightning lashes the heavens and a deafening peal of thunder is heard.

OUR FAREWELL SONG

(Tune "Auld Lang Syne")

Past years have fled and gone their way,
Like a passing summer's rain,
It seems but yesterday we met,
Yet here we part again.

Our work is done and the end is near,
Soon the last short passing bell,
And then we take our leave from school,
And sadly say farewell.

I hope I carry on with me,
The happiness school has brought,
And keep with me the friendships,
And the lessons it has taught.

And so goodbye. From in our midst,
We hope some futures great are born;
Through parting sorrow we must smile,
And welcome the life to come.

PRO MERITO SOCIETY

President	Evelyn Bassett
Vice-President	Julia Sarad
Secretary-Treasurer	Ruth Crowell
Adviser	Miss Eleanor Staton

Members—Grace Guerra, Winnifred Hiersche, Harry Merkel, Gloria Pereira, David Preston, Laura Swiatoska, Shirley Waldron, and John Wdowiak.

The Pro Merito is the honor society of the school. All those students attaining General or Maximum Honors for three years are automatically members. During 1937-1938 there were eleven members — three boys and eight girls. David Preston joined the society in the middle of the year because of his exceptionally good marks.

The Pro Merito took charge of the library for the first time, and also kept an attractive bulletin board. In the fall a book assembly was presented featuring "Gone With The Wind", "As the Earth Turns," "The Birds' Christmas Carol," and "Les Miserables." In the spring the group broadcast "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" and sponsored a movie to earn money to start a Students' Welfare Fund. The high light of the year was a sightseeing trip to New York City in May.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the governing body of the high school. During the year it accomplished a great deal. Members supervised the annual school elections, organized the traffic squad, established the Visual Aid Committee, acted as ushers at school affairs, and took charge of the dancing lessons. A Complaint committee was appointed early in the year to hear the complaints of the student body.

The Council also organized a Red Cross Life Saving Class, and carried out a contest for the Alma Mater Song.

As a climax to the year's work, a "hot-dog" roast was held at Veterans' Park.

The Hi-News exchanged papers with twenty-five schools, an increase over past years.

With the winter season coming, the Association elected the assistant managers for basketball and hockey teams, and cheer leaders for the basketball games were also chosen.

The Association took full charge of the basketball games, selling tickets, punching General Organization cards, and keeping order.

Director Mr. A. H. Messenger

This year the Ludlow High School Band entered its ninth season under the leadership of Mr. A. H. Messenger. In September the forty-six musicians competed at the Eastern States Exposition in the annual New England music contest. Raymond Davis, solo trumpeter, was awarded first prize, a gold medal, in an individual competition. Open Night the band gave a public concert, and later in March an Instrumental Festival was held. In May the group participated in Greenfield in a Western Massachusetts competition, placing first in their division. On Memorial Day the band cooperated with the American Legion in the annual holiday parade. During the year new saxophones and clarinets were added to the instrumental group. In the near future members anticipate the purchase of new uniforms.

The club was represented at two Older Boys' Conferences: an officers' congress at Springfield College, and the Two State conference at Malden, Massachusetts. Alfred Barrett will be a delegate of the Ludlow Hi-Y Club at a national Hi-Y conference to be held at Berea, Kentucky, during the summer vacation.

TORCH CLUB

President	David Ritchie

At a following meeting, a new constitution was drawn up, committees were appointed, and an adviser, Mr. Rooney, was chosen. Then the regular program followed. Inductions were held, hobby nights were arranged, and speakers, including Mr. Rooney, Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Miner, Mr. Warner, and Mr. Hargreaves gave us many useful ideas which we could use. The Torch Club has been very helpful to its members, and the club of future years will have a good foundation for its good work.

Later in the season Mrs. Hall, the county club agent, gave a talk on "What Is Expected of the 4-H Club Girl."

Many parties were enjoyed during the year, and on April 5th the annual exhibit was held, with the members acting as hostesses to their mothers and friends. Cards and pins were presented according to the amount of work done by the different members.

For the first time in the history of Ludlow High School, a chance for girls to take up home mechanics was offered. With the assistance of Mr. Trapp, instructor in manual training, the girls formed a shop club. They first learned about tools and different kinds of materials used in wood-working. The making of book ends was chosen as their first project.

Much publicity was given the club when a staff member of a local paper took pictures of the girls at work, and wrote an article on their accomplishments.

This year's team has many possibilities as it is composed of eleven veterans. The only positions to be filled with new men were left and center field.

The team has two exceptionally good players, Captain Avezzie, catcher, and Stanley Galeziowski, third baseman.

BASKETBALL

Members—William Avezzie, Thomas Brodeur, Fernando Costa, Mario Diotalevi, Jack Fonte, Robert Frennier, Harry Reid, Algy Shameklis, Americo Silva, and Manuel Vaz.

Manager Joseph Karczmarczyk

Assistant Manager John Zwizinski

Basketball was off to a slow start with a green team, but steady development and effort brought a reward of seven victories in the last eleven games, one of them being over Agawam on our home floor for the first time since the schools have played.

With the rapid improvement of Mario Diotalevi, Harry Reid, and Robert Frennier a good offense was built around them, with Shameklis and Vaz carrying the defensive load.

TENNIS

Members—Robert Frennier, Philip Gaffney, Leon Kras, William Low, William Mateer, John Mazur, Harry Merkel, Edward Mik, David Preston, Joseph Zina.

Manager Fred Pruhnik

Coach Mr. George Hargreaves

Last year tennis was inaugurated in Ludlow High School. The team was composed of practically all juniors. The home courts are at Berkshire Street Playground, Indian Orchard, because of the lack of suitable courts in town. This year the same team has returned and with the experience gained last season and during the summer, a good showing is expected.

LIFE SAVING

Boys—D. Amos, J. Amos, R. Boudet, C. Craigie, R. Frennier, W. Frennier, S. Galeziowski, J. Laughran, W. Mateer, W. Melnyk, H. Merkel, V. Pancotti, H. Reid, W. Rice, A. Shameklis, D. Scott, L. Tourville, R. Townsend, K. Warren, J. Zina.

For the second consecutive year the local chapter of the American Red Cross promoted a life saving class at the Stevens' Memorial Tank which proved very successful. About forty took the course of instruction with thirty-one receiving the senior and junior life saving insignias. This course is becoming so popular that it is impossible to take care of all those wishing to enter it, this year's class being limited to senior high students only.

It is hoped that with the aid of senior life savers formerly passed more can be taken care of in the future classes.

Two boys are to attend camp during the summer.

ART CLUB

President	Rita Arel
Vice-President	Rose Czorny

Treasurer	Frank Szczepanski

Members —Josephine Barczynski, Stella Bednarz, Stanley Gajewski, Rita Duquette, Anna Janik, Nellie Kurpaska, Theresa Stolar.

At Christmas time the club had a party, and in April the members spent an afternoon visiting the art museums in Springfield.

HAPPY HUNTING GROUND 2000 A. D.

A few Indians sit around the camp fire of their tribal Paradise.

"It isn't worth the trouble of striving hard to attain the peaceful life of the Happy Hunting Grounds now. Bah! it's not peaceful any more!" Big Chief Gloom disgustedly expresses the thoughts which have been overshadowing the happiness of his tribe.

"It's that tribe of teachers from Ludlow High! They say that never has a tribe so upset our Paradise," retorts Little Sad Spirit. "First there are the physical education teachers—they are a real nuisance. Miss Borden has practically every squaw looking out for her weight, and Mr. Miner has organized a new soccer team that could even beat that of the 1938 team of Ludlow High."

"That isn't all," complains Little Heavy Heart. "Shakespeare argues every day with Mr. Burgess as to the interpretation of several passages, and Miss Staton stands by correcting both. Homer and Virgil, however, are not so ferociously attacked by Miss McDermott and Miss Elmer, who agree unanimously with the two Latin poets."

"Do you know who is keeping the Happy Hunting Ground's books now? Of course Mrs. Cormier, with Miss Whitmore and Miss Tracy attending. It is said we have got out of debt, but I'd rather not have them poking around with their new systems."

"With Miss Bergeron prattling off French and praising the wonders of France, and Miss Saulnier wanting correct German pronunciation, we have not a word to put in," sighs Big Chief Gloom.

"The Happy Hunting Grounds have been precisely measured and remeasured by Miss Hitchcock and Mr. Carpenter who seem to disagree with Pythagoras on the diameter and height. Alas! All this was never needed until this exacting tribe came!" Soulful Eyes laments.

"That star we saw falling from the heavens last night is blamed on those three scientists Mr. Longmore, Mr. Millane, and Mr. McMahon, who, it is said, wanted to change the placing of the stars."

"Miss Hubbell, you know, wants to change the landscape and wants to hang more modern pictures on the walls. She even seems to think that the colors we have now do not harmonize. Miss Smith goes around with a tape measure, measuring the length of the stitches on our fathers' robes! Mr. Trapp says our woodwork needs refinishing. And Mr. Messenger, oh woeful day that they ever came, claims that our choir is out of pitch."

"Our politics were once respectable and impartial, but since this tribe arrived with their political preaching, we are lost; we don't know what to think. Mr. Peterson stands on a soap box denouncing Hitler and Mussolini; Mr. Rooney preaches against the evils of Communism; Miss Brooks tells us we must study to become good citizens, and Mr. Hargreaves continues to tell how George Washington never told a lie."

"Mr. Baird is a peaceful soul, but Mr. Joslow is running a close race against Demosthenes for the Happy Hunting Ground's title of greatest orator," adds Big Chief Gloom. "Our troubles are not over; they are just beginning. I'm not a pessimist, but the future looks dark. I wonder about the Abode of the Underworld. Do you suppose we might have more peace there?"

The campfire flickers and goes out. The Indians sit silently staring into the darkness.
